BREYERFEST 2008 CELEBRATION HORSE ALBOROZO

Effortlessly elevated into the air in demonstration of his classical Dressage training, Alborozo, owned by his trainer and rider Avi Cohen of Kilimanjaro Ranch, captures the strength and refinement of the Pura Raza Española (PRE) horse historically known as the Andalusian.

As one of the oldest horse breeds in the world, the Andalusian has influenced the development of more breeds than any other horse except for the Arabian and Barb. The Andalusian horse exhibits a versatility that has withstood the test of time. A proud and intelligent temperament combined with athleticism, nobility and elegance has made the Andalusian horse a breed unmatched.

Breyer has partnered with renowned equine artist Brigitte Eberl to create this spectacular new sculpture, only available with three-day tickets at BreyerFest 2008. To make the Alborozo model uniquely and especially collectible, Breyer will break the mold – something it has never done before in nearly 60 years of production!
