

George B. “Spider” Anderson

Author: Emily Libecap,
Graduate Student Intern

Places: Baltimore, Maryland; New York;
New Jersey; Savannah, Georgia

Birth: 1871 Death: Unknown

Professions: Jockey, Exercise Rider

Childhood and Family

George B. Anderson was born in Baltimore, Maryland in 1871. His parents were Charles and Ellen Anderson and he had four siblings.¹ Researchers are seeking more information about his childhood and early years in archived records and newspapers.

Career Beginnings

Anderson, at twelve years old and weighing 80 pounds, rode in the 1883 spring meet at Baltimore and Brighton Beach. Within three years, T. B. Davis and Frank Hall hired him to ride horses they owned. They stabled in Maryland at the Ivy City Colony, three miles from Washington, D.C.

Anderson, a 'lightweight' jockey, rode two-year old horses of prominent owners. They gave him the nickname of "Spider" because he was so small.²

Anderson was known for his honesty, clever riding and determination. One news story said that "The Spider never knows when he is beaten and seldom gives up."³

In 1889, while waiting for a race to begin, the horse Juggler bit Anderson's leg and lifted him out of the saddle, shook him and then dropped him on the ground. Spider's leg was treated and bandaged. He got back in the saddle and rode August Belmont's Fides to win the race while 10,000 fans cheered him on.⁴

In December, he won every race at Augusta, Georgia on horses that Green B. Morris stables owned. Anderson rode:

- Brait
- Barrister
- Sam Harper, Jr⁵

His skills as a jockey were compared to those of Isaac Murphy and Pike Barnes.⁶

Career Highlights

Anderson was the first African American jockey to win the Preakness Stakes race, which he did in 1889 riding the horse Buddhist, owned by Sam Brown. He also won the Alabama Stakes in 1891 aboard the filly Sallie McClelland and won the U.S. Hotel Stakes that same year.⁷

Throughout his career, Anderson rode for prominent horse owners including

- August Belmont
- D. D. Withers
- William L. Scott
- Byron McClelland
- William "Bill" Daly⁸

From 1889 to 1897, Anderson rode to win steeplechase races on these and other horses:

- Bess
- Counsellor Howe
- Sir Vassar⁹

Legacy

At some point, Anderson retired as a jockey and became a co-owner of horses. Although newspapers reported accounts of Anderson's life up until 1905, researchers continue to look for the date of his death.

Additional Research Provided By

Yvonne Giles, Research Consultant

Sources

"1880 United States Federal Census." 1880. Baltimore County, Maryland.

Goodwin Brothers Firm. 1894. Goodwin's Official Annual Turf Guide. New York, NY.

The New York Tribune (NY) "In The Mud at Ivy City." n.d. National Jockey Club.

The Evening Star. 1889. "At Ivy City Everything in Readiness for Fall Meeting," October 5, 1889.

The Washington Bee. 1894, January 6, 1894, sec. Roy's Sporting Talk.

The Washington Critic (D.C.). 1888. "The Ivy City Colony: Life at the Race Track During the Winter," February 4, 1888.

The Wichita Daily Eagle. 1890. "Famous Riders: 3 Colored Jockeys Who Have Done Wonderful Work, Daring, Honest, Skillful," June 17, 1890.

Weeks, Lyman Horace. 1898. The American Turf: An Historical Account of Racing in the United States, with Biographical Sketches of Turf Celebrities. 1898. New York: The Historical Company.

Footnotes

¹1880 United States Federal Census.”

²The Ivy City Colony: Life at the Race Track During the Winter.”

³In The Mud at Ivy City.”

⁴How Onandaga Defeated Sachem”

⁵The Horses of Morris Stable Scoop Every Race.”

⁶Famous Riders: 3 Colored Jockeys Who Have Done Wonderful Work, Daring, Honest, Skillful.”

⁷Goodwin Brothers Firm, Goodwin’s Official Annual Turf Guide.

⁸Weeks, The American Turf.

⁹At Ivy City Everything in Readiness for Fall Meeting.”